As we look around our world today, something is always changing. New buildings are being built. New people are moving into our lives. Changes are constantly occurring. We even see all of this right here on the George Fox campus, with the new Stevens Center being built for a growing population.

As we take a closer look, however, we see that the Stevens Center is not the only thing that is under construction. We look inside ourselves and see the many years of acquired knowledge and experiences that we are always building upon. We hope we see a life built upon God that will never stop changing or growing.

Keep building. But don't look only at the outside, look at your life, because we are constantly Under Construction.

In Memory of James-John Avery

On January 3, 2001, senior Writing/Literature major J.J. Avery was killed in a car accident when his vehicle lost control on the icy roads near Eugene, Ore. His fellow students and professors mourned his death and celebrated his life at a campus-wide memorial service, blessing the George Fox community through memories shared in tribute to a much-loved classmate, student, and friend. At the April 28th graduation ceremony, his parents were awarded an honorary B.A. degree on J.J.'s behalf. We dedicate this yearbook to the memory of J.J. Avery.

We miss you.

February 4, 1979 -
January 3, 2001

“J.J.’s love for life was clear in his passion for great ideas and for the words that make them. He was entranced and, I think, delighted by the vital power of language - sometimes by the words on the printed page, and sometimes by his own. I’ll never forget the look that would cross his face when he was coming to the edge of a new concept.”

-Professor Bill Jolliff

“J.J. possessed an innate ability to connect with people.”

-Scott Wade

“J.J. was real. He was striving to be Christ-like in all areas of his life. He made everyone feel at ease around him. He influenced people. I appreciate the unique individual God created in J.J. Avery.”

-Mark Pothoff

“J.J. was definitely a vessel for God and he enabled countless people to return to God. J.J. was a great friend to many and, as has been said, an instrument of the Creator. I will greatly miss J.J., his face, his smell, his jokes, that smile, his presence - but I feel assured that he is in a better place where there is no suffering, and there is nothing to worry about, and everything is absolutely perfect and in harmony.”

Faculty Lecture

Moving In

Right: O-Leader Erica Holten takes a moment to chat with girls moving into University Hall. The O-Leaders welcomed new freshmen by helping them move their belongings into their dorm rooms.

Freshman Orientation and Family Weekend:
Moments that Become Memories.

Family Fun

Freshman Orientation and Family Weekend provided students and family with a foundation of what will be experienced in college. During Orientation, students moved into their dorms and participated in activities such as a scavenger hunt, movie, and skits with their O-Groups. Family Weekend gave parents a first-hand look at their student's college life as they enjoyed faculty lectures, a luncheon, the student vs. faculty/staff basketball game, Comedy Sports, and the Fall Drama Showcase.

Lots of Activities Lots of Fun

Right: Karissa Spanner watches as the ASC Central Committee performs skits to entertain and inform incoming freshmen of the many opportunities at Fox.

Food, Family, and Fun

Above: George Fox students and family enjoy the banquet held on Saturday of Family Weekend. They enjoyed presentations by University President David Brandt and ASC President Brian Durick, as well as entertainment by DaySpring.

Fun in the Sun

Right: Jeni Nelson, April Pekarek, and Shanna Hazard serve themselves at an outdoor meal during Freshman Orientation. These meals, served on the Clock Tower lawn by Bon Appetit, gave students an opportunity to enjoy food, fellowship, and sunny weather with their O-Groups and other new friends. During the first part of orientation, parents also enjoyed these meals with their students.

Saying Goodbye

Above: After orientation Kelly Bilinski commented that it "was hard for me to say goodbye to my family - they are my best friends, but I also was looking forward to the great times ahead."

Meeting People

Left: Nathan Paisley and his family meet family members of other Fox students. Meeting new people and enjoying time with family and friends are a great aspect of Family Weekend.

Back in Class

Below: Julie Smith and her father, Chuck, enjoy a faculty lecture during Family Weekend. Lectures were presented by Bonnie Jerke, Kerry Irish, and Phil Smith.

Have a Laugh!

Below: Jenna Holt and her parents, Kirk and Barb, have a good laugh at the Family Weekend banquet in Klages Dining Hall.

Comin' Up Roses
Below: Brandon Willett and Margo Findley get down and dirty as they work at weeding and trimming rose bushes at a teen home run by Chehalis Youth Services.

Starlight & Stardust
Right: Adam Westmark balances precariously on a ladder as he concentrates on his task of cleaning rust off the neon sign at the Cameo movie theatre. His Serve Day group also painted and cleaned the theater.

Friends, Fun & Service
Below: The Ed 2 girls take a short break before returning to their hard work. They served North Valley Friends Church by resurfacing the parking lot, painting the church and flag pole, fixing the flower beds, and cleaning the inside of the church.

Sing and Worship

Left: Julia Vogt, Renee Waldon, Beth Royal, and other students participate in worship led by the Chapel Band. This service, as well as breakfast on the lawn, started Serve Day off right.

Chimree, Chimroo

Left: Working as a sweeper might seem like a dirty job, but it's a worthwhile task for Amber Wickstrom, who focuses on smoothing out the black top so that there are no bumps.

Painting and Smiling!

Above: Gillian Gould and Lisa Shafer look up from their painting to show their handiwork and smiles. Armed with paintbrushes and cleaning supplies, they spent the day, along with the rest of the Ed 2 girls, working at North Valley Friends Church in Newberg.

Fun with friends and reaching out to the community translates into....

Serve Day

Hard at Work

Soarin' High

"I got to paint the bell tower at North Valley Friends Church. We felt so cool! Not only did we get awesome painter's hats, we got to climb a rickety ladder 30 feet in the air and scratch rust off with paint thinner."

- Erin Newberry

Serve Day was an opportunity to show appreciation for the community and an attitude of service, as well as a chance to enjoy fellowship. For this event, which took place in early September, students, faculty, and staff all took a day off from classes and work to go out and do service projects for groups and individuals in Newberg and the surrounding communities. These projects ranged from painting, yardwork, and cleaning to visiting with the elderly.

Serving Together

Left: Demetria Anderson, Hannah Laughland, Hannah Melhorn, and Amanda Schlarbaum look up and smile as they paint the walls of North Valley Friends Church. Demetria said, "I was so amazed and excited to see everyone come together to help the church. We finished painting the whole church in just one day because of teamwork and music! What a great feeling it is to serve people in the community!"

On the Roof

Left: Fearlessness, balance, and skill are three elements required for being up on the roof. Adrian McPherson shows that he can get the job done as he cleans out the gutters!

Move to the Groove
 Right: In this view from above, streamers, lights, and lots of polyester-clad people set the scene for the 70s dance. "I haven't seen that much polyester since digging through Dirk Barram's closet!"
 - Andrew Coleman

It's All About Attitude

Right: Beau Jacoby shows his retro side as he heads to the 70s dance. Student and staff costumes ranged from slightly unusual to truly unique shirts, dresses, and bell-bottom pants.

Pretend you're someone you're not, dance the night away, and fight for your right to party along with . . .

Highlights of Fall 2000

This Takes Talent!

Right: Dan Willis, Nate Parkes, Bryan Free, and Nathan Dunkin perform for theatre games in Wood-Mar. Dan commented, "Bad improv dominated from start to finish, and it was pure entertainment."

Good Vantage Points at the 70s Dance

Above: Students are packed into the atrium as they remember the 70s with bright colors, strange patterns, wild wigs, and extravagant jewelry. "The 70s dance was fun, it was exciting, it was GROOVIN!"

-Alison Butler.

Theatre Games

Below: Laura Steenson, Chris Low, Aaron Stewart, and Benjamin Irwin perform a skit. Chris said, "Theatre games are a time where many people who really enjoy not being themselves can win prizes for doing the things that they would normally do even without getting rewarded for them. I am now under the impression that wearing pants sells a Bible better than not wearing them."
 - Chris Low

A New Meaning to Having a Ball . . .

Above: Rachel Moskowitz and Ryan Keeler participate in human bowling at extreme game night. This event, organized by the ASC Activities Committee, included several wild and larger-than-life activities including human bowling, human foosball, rock climbing, and boxing and jousting with big blow-up gear.

Extreme Measures

Left: Kristina Gilroy shows off her upper-body strength as she scales the climbing wall during extreme game night. Students chose from a variety of crazy activities with the benefits of safety gear.

Midnight Snack

Below: Wendee Selby and Allison Kessler serve food at midnight breakfast on dead day. "It was a great time to take a break from studying, refuel, and then hit the books again."

- Allison Kessler

Ladies . . . ?

Right: The women's bruin brawl, a much anticipated event for both genders, was a chance for the George Fox ladies to battle it out for the Bruin. "There were more boys that showed up to watch the girls fight than there were girls fighting!"

-Amy Bender

Ride 'em Cowgirl!

Below: Demetria Anderson attempts to master the mechanical bull at the holiday hoedown. "Maybe if I stopped laughing for a second, I would have stayed on for the full eight seconds!"

Santa's Helpers

Right: RAs Beau Jacoby and Jake Johnson dress up for the Penn/Carey/Willcuts/Beebe Christmas party. The party included food, crafts, tree decorating, and pictures with Santa.

A Time of Worship

Time of Giving

Christmas Cheer

Lighting up the World

Above: Sarah Dorsey, Melissa Reid, and Andrea Schmidgall gather on the Clock Tower lawn for the candlelighting service. Along with the lighting of candles and campus Christmas lights, students, faculty/staff, and community members sang Christmas carols and enjoyed refreshments. The service was followed by Christmas dinner and an evening of festive activities.

Giving Christmas to the Community

Twenty groups of students participated in a project sponsored by the Servant Leadership House in which they decorated Christmas trees to be donated to various families in the community.

New Friends and Fun Projects

Right: Chanda Maltzberger and a Little Bruin student work on making a candy Advent calendar.

Making a Difference in Our Community. Off-Campus Ministries

To serve and minister to the community, five committees work under the guidance of the Christian Services Director. Community service projects are carried out by Saturday Servants. JOY (Just Older Youth) volunteers work with elderly in the community. Each Friday night students involved in Urban Services ministered to the homeless in Portland. Through a partnership with a local elementary school, Little Bruin workers serve as mentors to young children. These ministries give students opportunities to make a difference in someone's life.

Cleaning Up and Getting Dirty

Jin Wang, JOY Services coordinator, works on her cleaning project at a volunteer work party to help out seniors in our community.

Saturday Servants

Above: Saturday Servant volunteers spend a Saturday afternoon working with Habitat for Humanity to build a house. This was just one of many projects sponsored by the Community Service committee.

Working Outside

Right: Freshman Beth Templeton works on a landscaping project as a Saturday Servant volunteer in October. For this project, students spent the day working with Interfaith Volunteer Caregivers to assist people in the community. Saturday Servant projects gave students many opportunities to reach out to needy people in the community with God's love and practical service.

Volunteer Workers

Above: JOY Services volunteers sweep up a kitchen floor and make it spotless in order to assist one of the lucky recipients of JOY workers' services.

Decorating

Quilters

There's	No Guys?!
 I've been in yet. I have a bond with those gals forever! Yeehaw!" -Stephanie Shankland	"At first I was apprehensive about a name like 'QUILTERS' and the lack of testosterone to even things out, but those girls rocked my world. It was the deepest, most meaningful show

Q*uilters*, performed in January, was an all-girls musical produced by Carrie Jo Vincent, a drama professor here at George Fox University. The musical had a cast of thirteen girls and contained lots of music, laughter, and dancing. The play was performed to portray the struggles that pioneer women faced through their everyday life on the rugged frontier. The women of the time would make quilts to portray the stories of their lives. Quilters told the story of each of these quilt blocks.

Dance for Joy

Above: Davida Ankeny, Jillian Stillinger, and Jana Swindler perform a dance with bright smiles to show that the pioneer women did have fun, despite their many tragedies.

Rock-a-Bye Baby

Left: Quilters portrayed the dangers, adventures, and everyday tragedies that faced the pioneer women who took on the challenge of moving westward. One of these big challenges was having and raising children. Here Darla Balzer, who plays one of the daughters, gently rocks her baby back and forth, while Davida Ankeny (another daughter) folds a quilt.

Power and Praise

Right: Members of The Power and Praise Dance Company, founded in 1985 by B.J. Bateman, perform a guest number.

Looking for Answers

Right: Michael Shelton, playing his character Frank, and Bryan Odegard, acting as a suspect, perform in "Answers," set in a New York City police station.

A festival of dance and short theatrical pieces . . .

Pieces of Life

Pieces of Life, performed in Wood-Mar Auditorium from February 1-10, was a festival of one-act plays and dances dealing with some of the joys and sorrows of life. Each dance or scene was a first-time performance for someone involved with the production. There were fourteen performances: a 7:30 family show and a 9:30 mature audiences show each night as well as two matinees. Over 60 students, alumni, and guests were involved.

Music, Dance, and Prayers

"Whatever I am involved in, I want to glorify God with the talents He has graciously given me. I hope the 'Pieces of Life' festival touched many people as it was a celebration of life."

- Kelsey Kaopuiki ("My Prayer")

Time Flies

Above: Kate Brain and Noah Hormann play "two mayflies who meet during a night on the town and through their discoveries come to realize the value of friendship, love, time, and seizing the day" (Director's Notes).

Transformation

Right: Roslyn Barnfield, Vanessa Elsner, Angela Weece, and Melissa Reid perform their dance, "Transformation." Kristina Hargie choreographed the dance to manipulate different dynamics and technique. She wrote, "The title expresses my idea that people change throughout life - we slow down, quicken our pace, change directions - but in the end we are the same as when we began."

The Lover

Above: Lindsay Younce and Lyle Railsback perform as Sarah and Richard in their scene, "The Lover," written by Harold Pinter and directed by Jeff Eldridge.

Peace Within

Left: Mindy Hansen, Roslyn Barnfield, Kristina Hargie, Julia Strickland, and Angela Weece perform a dance entitled "Peace Within."

Winners

Below: Nathan Dunkin shows a look of surprise at Tonya Lynne Wildhaber's angry look in "Winners." The play was written by Irish playwright Brian Friel.

Jesus Loves Me, This I Know

Below: Jennifer Cooper and Brooke Van Winkle play two personalities of their character in "This I Know," while fellow actors Thad Tsohantaris and Matt Tibbs interrogate them.

Let Me Do It!

Below: Kristina Russell, playing Capulet and Thad Tsohantaridis, playing the butler, attempt to unlock the wheelchair while Tonya Lynne Wildhaber, playing Madame Desmortes, examines her list.

Not a Kiss!

Right: Thad Tsohantaridis, playing the butler Joshua, shows a look of horror and shock as Melissa Mock tries to charm him with a kiss.

Show Me the Money

Below: After realizing that money is not the answer to happiness, Stephanie Shankland, playing Isabelle, and Daniel Wesley Willis, as Messerschmann, tear up the millionaire's fortune.

Care to Dance?

Left: The dance cast entertains their audience during the pre-show in the atrium, showing that their long hours of practice and a favorite saying, "Shut up and dance," paid off.

Hold Me

Left: Kelsey Kaopuiki, as Diana Messerschmann, and Nathan Dunkin, who played both Hugo and Frederick, show the energetic and flirtatious personality of their characters.

Looking for Someone?

Got You!

Right: Showing that they're obviously not afraid of getting dirty, Martha Glover and Katherine Short enjoy the Spring Retreat by wrestling in the sand.

Masterpiece!

Left: Ben Hodgdon shows off his creative masterpiece during some free time at the fall retreat. The retreats were a time of fun with friends as much as a time to focus on God.

Take a break from studying, get away from campus, and experience God.

All-Campus Retreats

There were three opportunities for students to enjoy retreats during the school year. Fall Retreat was held at Camp Howard where Daryl Dixon spoke on contending for the faith. There was a women-only retreat the weekend before spring break at West Chehalem Friends in Newberg. Deborah Greenidge spoke on being a "daughter in the house of God" and Sharon and Eden led worship. Spring Retreat was held at Twin Rocks. Neal Ninteman shared about "living your faith" and students enjoyed the beach, hiking, and a trip to the Tillamook cheese factory.

Spiritual Growth and Lots of Fun

"I always like going to retreats. It's a good time to spend with God and friends."

- Stefanie Hazard

Warming Up With Friends and Chocolate!

Above: Sandy King, Sarah Schmidt, and Krystal Muir enjoy a cup of hot chocolate at the Spring Retreat. The retreats offered plenty of time to relax, get to know new people, and strengthen existing friendships.

At the Beach

Right: Meghan Brown enjoys a walk on the beach during the Spring Retreat. The beach was one of the key features and activities of this retreat, offering times for rowdy fun and quiet reflection. Rosie Offsie said, "I will always remember having quiet time with God sitting on a huge stump at the top of the 'mountain' looking out at the ocean crashing below. I wished I could just stay up there washed in the joy of His presence forever."

Solo Time

Above: Eric Sarensen enjoys quiet time with God. Solo time was an important focus of the retreats, giving students a chance to get away from distractions and focus on God.

Budding Chefs?

Left: Julia Vogt, the retreat coordinator, prepares food at the Fall Retreat. Approximately 80 students attended the three-day getaway at Camp Howard.

Worshipping God

Below: Heather Dunham, Christine Riker, Robin Green, and other students enjoy a time of heartfelt worship and focus on God at the Spring Retreat.

Tackle!

Below: Seniors Jonathan Morrell, James Kramer, Matt Connor, and another friend enjoy their last spring retreat by playing a game of football on the beach.

Have Faith Like a Child
Below: Rosie Oftsie and a child at the Christian Children's Ranch in Boise, Idaho, take a moment from their tutoring and fun to smile for the camera.

UNO!

Below: The Canada Winter Serve Team spends an evening playing Uno. The group worked with Mission Possible in Vancouver, B.C., to serve the homeless through prayer walks, service projects, and soup feeds.

May Serve

Right: The May Serve Team, headed to Cuba and Jamaica, takes a break from a planning and training meeting held before the trip.

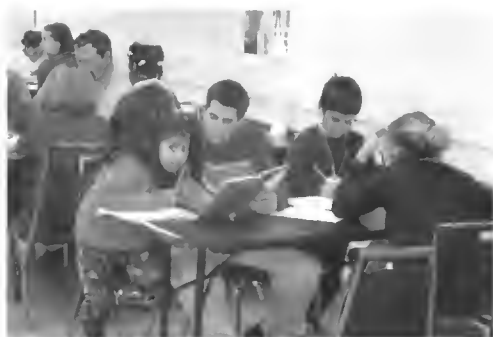

Teamwork and Smiles

Left: Amy Christensen, Andy Bellamy, Darla Phillips, Jody Hamm, and Sarah Vander Stoep (front) use teamwork and enthusiasm to make their job more fun and efficient. They worked with La Casa Experience to build a house in Mexico.

Working Together

God Works Through Us

Above: Mike True works with kids on the Seattle Winter Serve Trip. He expressed his amazement at how God used all the trips by saying, "This year, God has gone above and beyond what was expected in which the students were tremendously blessed."

Serve Trips

Blessed

by Service

"I went into the week with a negative attitude, but when I look back at the friends we made and the influence we had, I wouldn't change it for the world. When we got back, God had given me so much joy that I couldn't even begin to express it!"

- Krystal Muir

During the last week of winter break, about 80 students participated in Serve trips to Seattle, Canada, Portland, and a discipleship trip to Twin Rocks Camp. Service projects included working with the homeless and putting on a day camp for inner city children. Over Spring Break, around 100 students participated in Spring Serve. Five trips were offered, going to Mexico, Fresno, Seattle, Idaho, and Utah. On these trips students built houses, worked with children, and reached out to the Mormon culture through service and evangelism.

A New Perspective

Above: Yen Tse (Mexico Serve Trip) commented, "This serve trip was one of the most humbling experiences of my life. May we never, ever take our blessings here in America for granted."

Sledding

Left: For the Seattle Winter Serve Trip members, working with low income inner city children in Seattle wasn't just about work. The students ran a day camp for these kids which included some fun adventures. Here Katherine Burley and another serve trip member return to their own childhood as they enjoy the winter weather and take the kids sledding. The Seattle Serve Trip also helped serve food to the homeless.

Dance to the Beat
 Right: A long train is formed by a group of students who are enjoying the fun times that will create memories. Students got wild and crazy as they remembered the times of side pony tails and pegged jeans.

Boogie to the Beat

Right: The 80s dance provided students with the opportunity to forget about homework and dress up in fabulous 80s attire. Collin McKinney is sporting a nice suit with suspenders and holding a small hand-held keyboard. Doesn't he look great?

Comfy, Cozy

Above: Angela Fristch and a friend get comfy on one of the cozy couches inside the Foxhole. It is open to all students and faculty who want to hang out, do homework, grab a drink or just want to have a good old time.

Coffee Anyone?

Right: The Foxhole, which has been open since November, is led by director Derek Johnson. It is a place to enjoy good coffee and other drinks served by Foxhole staff, like Kristen Moody, who is serving two customers their favorite drinks. The Foxhole was moved to a new location after its old home was moved in order to make room for the construction of the new Stevens Center. Its new home is in the old Kelsey House across from Pennington Residence Hall.

Shake, shake, shake...

Salsa Dancing

Left: The Salsa Dance was one of several Friday night theme dances. Here Uriel Plascencia and Flora Richards dance to the music as they enjoy a night filled with fun.

Lip Sync

Below: The annual lip sync competition was held in February of 2001. Here Jacob Kuntz and Davie Wold perform for the event.

Music to Our Ears

Below: There was a big turn-out for concerts in the SUB. For this one, Five O' Clock People played for a night of pure enjoyment by Fox students. They played at George Fox several times this year.

Chapel Band

Spiritual Formation

The Word

for Today

Campus Pastor Gregg Lamm shares a message during one of his regular chapel presentations.

Gregg was also responsible for bringing in guest speakers.

The Spiritual Formation program requires students to receive 21 chapel credits each semester. When asked why this program exists, Gregg Lamm said, "Jesus Christ didn't come to Earth, die and come back to life again just so we could adopt a new set of rules — trying to do the right things from the outside in. Jesus' highest aim, goal and desire is to take up residence in our lives, to be our Master, to teach us a whole new way to live, to change our hearts. Because once our hearts are changed, then our attitudes and actions can change too. It's change from the inside out instead of from the outside in. The Spiritual Formation program gives students opportunities to be engaged with Jesus Christ in this process of change He so tenderly and passionately desires for all of us."

RA Chapel

Above: Beau Jacoby shares his heart during the Penn/Carey/Beebe/Willcutts chapel. Each living area staff organized a chapel at some point during the year.

Worship Together

Left: Students enjoy a time of worship during a Greenroom service in Wood-mar Auditorium. Greenroom, which is usually held on the Bauman auditorium stage, is a time of student organized and led worship which takes place every Friday morning at 10. Chapel credit is not given, but many students still attend the time of worship, prayer, reflection, and occasional speakers.

Cheerleaders?

Huddle

Right: The Junior and Senior ladies huddle together to form a game plan for the Powder Puff Game. It must have been effective because they won the game!

This year's Mr. Bruin Pageant was held on April 5, 2001 to benefit International Family Services. The money raised through support letters, fundraisers, and ticket sales was given to Andrew Gess, a professor at the Portland Center, and his wife, Carrie, to help them adopt twin girls from China or Russia. A total of $17,250 was raised, including a generous gift from an anonymous donor. In addition to raising money, the contestants helped the Gesses prepare their home for kids.

Formal Escorts

Above: Thong Nguyen dances with his escort Emily Hansen. The escorts worked with the contestants, helping them raise money and joining them onstage.

Just Laugh

Left: Senior Jonathan Morell acts as a stand-up comedian, telling some funny and some not-so-funny jokes for his talent competition. Other talents shown off during the pageant by contestants included dancing, singing, song-writing, karate, and juggling. The award for best talent was given to James Eubank, who dressed up in a bear costume and danced to "The Teddy Bear Picnic."

Creating Memories

Right: Freshmen Sarah Welstad, Christy Miller, Lisa Mizek, and Brooke Van Winkle enjoy their first Spring Formal.

Looking Pretty

Right: Laura Grable smiles as she dances, showing that she's having a great time.

One Last Dance

Above: Deanna Cintas and a friend boogie down. As a senior, Deanna was enjoying the music, dancing, and fun of her last Spring Formal.

Bust a Move

Right: Jacob Kuntz has no fear as he shows his wild side with a flashy outfit and entertains everyone watching with his impressive dance moves. Jacob was only one of many students who wasn't afraid to dance alone or with a partner in the middle of the dance floor. These students all enjoyed some attention as they danced to the band's music and showed off their favorite moves.

Don't Look Back!

No Boys Allowed

Below: Chelsea Philips and Katy Schnitker worship together at the All-Girls Praise and Worship time hosted by the Villa Road House ladies.

Wild and Crazy Fun

Right: Jana Swindler won book shelves and then decided to try and trade them for something bigger at "Let's Make a Deal." For this event, students dressed up in hopes of being picked for the craziest outfit.

Fly-Me Carnival

Below: Tiffany Daiber, Brooke Van Winkle, and a friend admire their newly won gold fish and enjoy some cotton candy during the Fly-Me carnival. The carnival was a time for the Activities Committee to set up fun games and send two lucky students to Disneyland.

Let's Trade

Left: During the "Let's Make a Deal" event students got the opportunity to trade old, random items for bigger things, such as a stereo or DVD player.

Yummy

Left: John Colburn helps with the Fly-Me Carnival by being in charge of the cotton candy machine. Students who attended the carnival went to him for a yummy treat as an added bonus to their fun.

Ahh How Cute...

Above: Brandon Goff and Shayda Rohani join in the fun of the annual Stress Relief Clinic put on by the residence life staff by getting a facial. This event provided students with the opportunity to relax after a long weekend of studying for finals.

Bruin Brawl

Bombs Away...

Left: Sophomores Matt Littles and Kenan Butler prepare to launch the Bruin into a crowd of awaiting men from a catapult constructed by sophomore engineers. They had won the Bruin in the last Brawl after wrestling it from the other classes.

Relaxation...

Left: Elizabeth Davis enjoys a massage from a professional masseuse at the Stress Relief Party. The masseuse was brought in to ease students' tired muscles after long nights of hunching over books studying for finals. Other stress relief activities included facials from a Mary Kay consultant, hand massages, smoothies, aromatherapy, soothing music, and yoga. Many students went and enjoyed being pampered.

Hot Sun, Good Food, and More

Above: Students enjoy the finals week barbeque hosted by Bon Appetit on the Centennial Tower lawn. Everyone enjoyed all of the picnic-type foods as well as the opportunity to play games such as volleyball or frisbee. The beautiful weather and the outdoor meal was a welcome break from the finals week routine.

Seniors

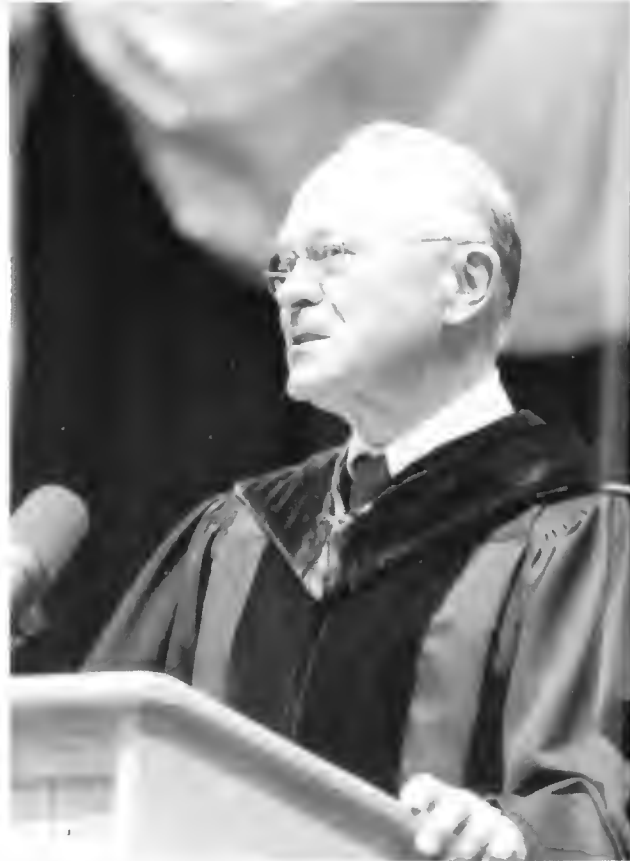

The culmination of a lifetime.

Graduation

The graduates of 2001. Above: The long-awaited moment is finally theirs as Demetria Anderson and Paul Andrewjeski revel quietly at the significance of the diplomas in front of them. Demetria won the honors of Outstanding Health and Human Performance major; Paul graduated magna cum laude in Biology.

"My friends, may you grow in grace..." Right: President Brandt speaks the words of commissioning to the Class of 2001 as they echo the solemn invitation for God's equipping in the future.

The graduates of 2001. Above: With excited faces, the graduates look for their family members and friends upon entering the packed gymnasium. The Class of 2001 boasted 588 graduating seniors, the highest number ever in George Fox history.

A surprise speaker encourages and inspires ...

"Do NEAT stuff."

Above: Though stepping in at the eleventh hour, Dr. Tom Johnson, Dean of the Seminary, had intrigued and excited his listeners with his message.

Even at commencement, after years of making plans and building expectations, plans can change at the last minute.

When the evening's arranged keynote speaker became ill, Tom Johnson, Dean of the Seminary, had keen words and insights on hand to fill in with his own last-minute commencement address.

With a refreshing informality, Johnson helped the graduates complete the last building block of their college career as he urged them to take full advantage of any opportunity that may be on the horizon.

Has it been four years already?

Happy Ending

Graduates at mid-year commencement in December, including Jamie Johnson, follow along in their final hymn as students of George Fox University.

Finally Done

As she accepts her diploma from President Brandt, Jennifer Bernham proudly makes a final exit from her college career.

The Last Word

In a final form of collegiate expression, several heads made statements without saying a word by forming messages in tape on their caps. Other statements included, "Oh yeah!," "We love JJ," and "Bye- Bye."

George Fox's one hundred and ninth graduating class bids farewell to their alma mater.

So much to look back on. These seniors enjoy a sense of accomplishment, no doubt fully cognizant of the huge step they are about to take into the world. This moment meant something different for each graduate, but all wore a unifying symbol: a blue ribbon on each senior's gown commemorated the death of fellow senior J.J. Avery earlier in the year.

Waiting in Line

Juniors Abroad

Despite the cold, rainy weather, many sophomores spent a night or two camped out on the lawn in front of Hoover in order to register for their first-choice Juniors Abroad trip for next year. The trips offer a wide variety of destinations such as Peru, Bolivia, Rome, London, Budapest, Greece, Western Europe, Madrid and New Zealand.

It's Too Early

In order to be enrolled in their classes of choice, many students got up early and spent at least an hour in line before registering. In this picture freshmen (who must wait until the last day of registration) wait patiently for the Registrar's Office to open.

Hungry?

After waiting in line for week-day breakfast or lunch, students are greeted by Jack as he swipes meal cards. Jack's friendly "Hello" and desire to learn everyone's name has made him a favorite with many students. Here Jack takes a moment to chat with Mike True.

What do they do when not studying?

Student Lives

Express Your Creative Talent.

Above: Students from Pennington and the suites work on their creative talents at the Expression Session in the Pennington lobby. A variety of materials were available for students to express themselves creatively through crafts.

There were five different tables, each with a different theme: Random, Nature, Sculpture, Painting, Collage. At the end of the night the two best pieces from each category were selected. Music and refreshments entertained students and kept creative minds thinking.

Does my hair look OK?

Right: As any college student knows, maintaining that desired good look despite sleep deprivation, studying, and a busy social life can be hard. Some may mistake this head gear for an up and coming fashion trend, but in reality, Stephen Brittell is getting his hair frosted by Darla Phillips.

A Fashion Statement...

Above: Rachel Armon, Julia Vogt, and Beth Royal show their resourcefulness by donning stylish caps which can double as food baskets at a surprise party held at Red Robin. When asked to comment on the unique caps, Julia simply requested, "More fries, please!"

Roomies: Fun, Friends, and Surprises

The great pumpkin

Roomies are a much enjoyed activity that most living areas participate in at least once a year. Each floor decides on an activity, and each participant finds a date for their roommate. Sometimes the date is kept secret until the "big night," other times it might be agreed upon beforehand. This year's activities included going to the corn maze, dressing up and going ice skating, bonfires on the beach, going to a student's house to hang out, movie nights, service projects, sports events, and dinners. Roomies was always a time to get to know new people and an excuse to hang out with old friends in a large group.

What happens in our halls?

Be my Valentine?
 Girls from U-Hall 2 East take a moment during their Valentine's Day crafts and decorating party to show off all of their creative efforts. This was one of many floor activities designed for students to have fun, be creative, and develop lasting friendships.

This is the way we vacuum the hall...

Chores don't always have to be boring. The custodial crew worked hard to keep the halls clean, but individual rooms needed attention from their occupants as well, sometimes providing entertainment in the process. Carrie Sullins and Cortney Kingston demonstrate how chores can be fun and a time of bonding. This activity they simply call "vacuuming."

and carved a jack-o-lantern.

Boys will be boys.
 After carefully laying out newspaper, Andrew Peterson enjoys the Halloween season by scooping the seeds out of a pumpkin. Afterwards, he and his roommate roasted and ate the seeds

Rest and Relaxation

Stress Relief

Brandon Buerkle, Bryan Free, Matt McKenzie, and Jon Buhler play relaxing music for the Stress Relief Clinic sponsored by residence life staff during spring semester finals week. The music provided a peaceful background for massage, smoothies, and aromatherapy.

Time with God

At the all-campus Fall Retreat Cindy Lewis enjoys a time of peaceful reflection and quiet time with God in the great outdoors. Time spent outside with friends and with God provided a weekend of relaxation for everyone who attended the retreats.

Nap Time?

Andrew Gumley and David Malcolm participate in yoga and learn relaxation techniques at the annual Stress Relief Clinic in the Cap and Gown Room. In the midst of finals week, the evening of relaxing activities was a welcome break from the stresses of studying.

Life is full of hard work, but sometimes you just have to play.

Hanging Out

Time to Relax and Have Fun.

Above: A week of traveling and competition for the Spring Fling track and field trip to California is sure to include some fun activities and a lot of bonding time. Here Senior Jamie McElwain, Sophomore Kelsey Baron, Freshman Mona Matthews, and Junior Heidi Smith show some big smiles as they pose for a group shot while bowling on the trip.

New Classes.

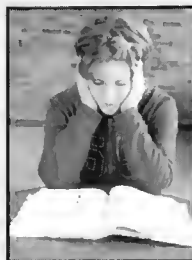

Right: Bwalya Chileya and Heidi Rickey smile despite the long line and early morning characteristic of registration and show off the 2001-2002 class schedule they're hoping for.

Commercial Break.

Finals: Studying and Study Breaks

Study Hard...

During finals week, last-minute homework and extensive studying consumes much of everyone's time. In spite of the stresses of looming tests and final grades, though, students still manage to enjoy their last week of each semester.

The traditional midnight breakfast and bruin brawl on dead day give everyone a chance to take a break from studying and socialize. During spring finals week, students also enjoyed the beautiful weather by studying and relaxing on the lawn.

Arts and Academics

Leading Worship

Sophomore Erica Quessenberry uses her vocal talents and love for singing to worship and glorify God. Erica was one of several students and faculty members who led worship or performed special numbers during the Good Friday service.

Artist-in-Residence

Flora Richards enjoys the warm sunshine and cool shade of a beautiful autumn afternoon as she practices her painting skills on the lawn in front of the SUB. Her finished artwork was a beautiful representation of a tree on the Centennial Tower lawn.

In the Bruin Den

Kristy Elson and one of her study partners work on homework in the Bruin Den. Its central location, computer hookups, and late hours made this area a popular place for day and night homework, studying, meals, meetings, and socializing.

Faculty

"My goal when I become a teacher is to be a blend of Dwight Kimberly and Carrie Jo Vincent. I want to combine Dwight's passion for his subject and concern for his students with Carrie Jo's creativity and ability to inspire others. I don't know how many Biology/Theatre teachers there are in this world, but they have made me believe I can pull it off."

Students Say . . .

"Colleen Richmond has been such a great help to me this year. She has helped me individually, and has really cared about my success in the class. I appreciate the way that she involves her students in class discussions, to help us all understand the subjects we have learned about."

- Sarah Walden

"Kerry Irish has not only been an amazing professor to me these last four years, but he has become a deep personal friend. My life has been changed because of the times I have spent with him. He is truly a man of God."

- James Kramer

"This year I got the privilege of having Becky Ankeny as a teacher for the first time. That woman's genius and wit blows me out of the water. Her unique character and interesting fashion sense combine to make one of the most awesome people I've ever met. I feel more than privileged to know her, and I hope to someday be as smart as she is."

- Kristal Carson

"Ed Higgins is the smartest man alive!"

Making a Difference

Final Farewell

Left: After 30 years at George Fox, Music Professor Dave Howard plays his final farewell performance. Student Melany Eslinger said of Howard, "He has been a blessing to all his students.

His sense of humor and gentle, wise leadership has transformed our group (Handbell Ringers) into actually playing recognizable songs!"

Faculty of the Year

Right: Michelle Johnson, accounting professor and head of the Business/Economics Department, was chosen as the Faculty of the Year. In response to her award, she said, "I am truly honored to represent this excellent faculty by accepting this award. I am blessed to be called to such a job where I can mentor, teach, and challenge students, and in return, get a good measure, pressed down, shaken together and running over."

- Janelle Walker

"Mark Doyle gives and gives until there is nothing left. And even then, with only an hour of sleep and no food, he continued to give even more of himself. I've never met someone who was so devoted and fun to be around. I appreciate his enthusiasm, and weird quirks."

- Mandi Zollman

"Dirk Barram's heart for students shows in everything he does. I remember my sophomore year when he invited me and five of my friends over to his house for dinner with his family. The way he reaches out to touch students' lives is amazing."

Cross Country

With no seniors on the team, underclassmen members were called upon to step up their leadership and ignite their teammates.

The performance of Steve Willmer capped off an injury-ridden season for the Bruin men's team as the Fullerton, Calif., junior earned Second Team All-Conference honors with a 10th-place finish in the men's NWC race. In just his second year competing in cross country, Willmer then went on to make All-Region with a 15th-place finish at Chino. His teammates considered this display of determination and talent worthy of both the MVP and the Most Inspirational awards for the season. Freshman Will Vollstedt (Portland, Ore.) joined his upperclassman teammate on the

All-Region team by finishing 34th in the field of 100 and was named Rookie of Year for his efforts. As a team, the Bruins finished 5th in the conference race and 9th of 13 in the region. The season's best finish came at home, when the Bruins placed second at Champoege Park's Bear Fete Invitational, a course they'd covered many times in practice.

The Face of Aggression

Left: The cross country men toe the line to begin the 8k with the knowledge that the next 25-30 minutes will be chock-full of self-induced pain. This knowledge, though, is tempered with the fact that for dozens of miles during a full week of practice, they have already fought to stay close on each other's heels.

All in Good Stride

Far Left: Sophomore Matt Gerber was so noted for his efforts on the course - and for the minutes he chopped off his 8k time - that he was named "Most Improved" for the men.

"Pain is weakness leaving the body."

Above: Rookie of the Year Will Vollstedt was a steady powerhouse for the Bruins, capturing "All-Western Region" recognition for his top-35 finish at the regional meet in Chino, CA. The freshman consistently finished as a top-two scorer for George Fox and looks to be the promising leader for a young GFU team.

Women's

Cross Country

First-time harrier Colleen Forbes proved herself a powerful force for the Bruins, fighting all the way to a national berth as George Fox's sole competitor in Spokane.

Three runners earned NCAA Division III All-West Region honors and Colleen Forbes became the first Bruin to compete in the NCAA National Championships, capping off a successful season for the George Fox women's cross country team.

Forbes, a junior from Jackson, Wyo., who was running cross country for the first time ever this fall, earned a place in the women's national event by placing 8th in the West Regional in Chino, Calif. At the National Championships race in Spokane, Wash., she placed 98th of 211 runners.

His Girls

Right: Coach Wes Cook, in his 14th season as head coach, was especially delighted by the team's performance at PLU. The team time of 96:59.8 and the spread of only 39 seconds between the 1st and 5th runners ranked among the best ever by a GFU team.

Other All-Region performers for the Bruin women were freshman Janelle Goeres, who was 21st, and four-year senior Marisa Merritt, who came in 26th. As a team, the Bruins finished 5th in the conference race and 6th of 14 teams in the region.

Fight to the Finish

Far Left: Sophomore Kat Burley guts out the final few meters to finish in her steady 5th scoring place for the Lady Bruins. Her tenacity earned her both Most Improved and Most Inspirational in the eyes of her teammates.

Nose Dive...

Below: Janelle Goeres' teammates swerve to avoid her as she takes a spill during the first 100 meters of the Bear Fete Invitational. This race on the Bruins' home turf was restarted due to the entanglement of fallen runners so soon after the starter's gun.

Stride for Stride

Left: Junior Colleen Forbes and four-year senior Jamie McElwain pace each other during competition. Team MVP Forbes made the All-Northwest Conference First Team by finishing 6th in the NWC meet in Walla Walla, Wash. McElwain just missed All-Region with a 37th-place finish in Chino. These two contributed to the women's title of NCAA DIII 2000 Cross Country Academic Team Champions; the Lady Bruins combined for an astounding GPA of 3.97.

Right, Fake Left, Run...

Right: Bryan Erickson runs to the ball and swiftly moves around his opponent, maneuvering the ball in the direction of the goal, in order to either pass the ball to another team member or make the shot himself.

Don't Fall...

Above: Chris Shields slide tackles a member from the opposing team, so that he can get the ball to one of his own team members. He strategically places his foot in front of the player carefully moving around him to kick the ball out of the way, so that another George Fox team member can get to it.

Who's Open?

Far Right: The ball is kicked out of bounds by the opposing team, giving George Fox a chance to get the ball down the field to make a shot. Kyle Langeliers throws the ball back in bounds to one of his team mates, so that they can take the ball towards the goal.

Men's Soccer

Just For Kicks

"This season was somewhat of a bitter-sweet season with the sweet coming first. We got to see the great potential of having one of the top teams in our league in the first half of the season. The other half, well let's just call it the bitter part."

-Bryan Erickson

This was a tough season for the Bruins. After a sizzling start the Bruins fell to an overall NW Conference record of 3-10-1. The start of the season was high-lighted with a win over national powerhouse Colorado College and a seven-game winning streak. Key contributors for the Bruins this year were 1st Team all-conference selection Bryan Erickson, who ended the season with 12 goals and 10 assists, and 2nd Team all-conference Jamie Johnson, who finished his last season with 10 goals and 6 assists.

The Bruin roster included 12 newcomers, four of whom made an immediate impact on the season; Max Sorenson (Bothell, Wash.), Chris Waters (Boise, Idaho), Jon Miller (Nipomo, Calif.), and Ron Besser (Kenniwick, Wash.). The youthful Bruins struggled to finish the season. Coach Tschan's speedy offensive approach and strong defensive style will help the team next year, though the outcome will be determined by the hard work and strength of the returning players.

A Rewarding Experience.

"We had an educational hot and cold season. We started well, beating some good teams before we ran out of gas. It was rewarding to see [that] we could hang with nationally ranked teams. Best of all, when we are in the same situations next year we will have the experience to succeed."

Women's Soccer

Season to Remember

Highlights of the year led to one of the finest seasons in the ten-year history of George Fox women's soccer.

With the loss of a very talented assistant coach, Byron Shenk took over as head coach - the first that the women's team has ever had. Two new assistants, Heather Thibodeau and Todd Williams, plus several skilled freshmen, added strength to an already talented team. The Bruins opened the season by winning the Western Baptist Courthouse Athletic Club Classic and were 2-2 entering conference play. One highlight of the season was an at-home upset over Willamette University that ended the Bearcats' 62 game winning streak. The Bruins finished third in the conference with an 11-3 mark. With a 13-5 overall record, they had hopes of being invited to the NCAA National Championships, but were disappointed when not selected for the five-team West Regionals. Even so, the Bruins posted the second-best record in team history.

Team Unity

"This season we grew as a team. We became friends first, and then teammates. It made all the difference in the world. I will never forget the 4 years here and I am so thankful for the friendships that have been made."

-Erin Oates

Volleyball

Steve Grant, the Bruins' head coach for 19 years, endured only his second losing season, but still has an impressive record, ranking in the top 15 among active coaches in the NCAA Division III for career wins.

With the loss of All-Conference performers Sharon Barnett and Beth Davis, along with four starters from the 1999 team, the 2000 George Fox volleyball team figured to be short on experience. That forecast proved true as the Bruins struggled to a 7-15 record, snapping a streak of 13 winning seasons and marking only the fourth losing campaign in the 22 years of Bruin volleyball.

There were some impressive moments for the young George Fox team, however. The Lady Bruins opened the season with a 2-2 record in the Pikes Peak Challenge, including an upset win over national power Colorado College. In the Bruins' first home match, they lost a 3-2 heartbreaker to La Verne, who went on to become one of only two teams in the country to endure the regular season undefeated. The Bruins also defeated a Whitman team among the best in the Northwest Conference en route to a 5-11 conference record and a seventh place finish hile the final 2000-01 men's basketball record was only the same as last year at 8-16, there were many positive signs that George Fox men's basketball may be on its way back.

First-year coach Mark Sundquist, who replaced veteran coach Mark Vernon in late July, had little time to recruit and thus had to make do with a lineup that was usually much smaller than the lineup of the opponents. The Bruins made up for their lack of height, however, with hustle, aggressive defense, and plenty of outside shooting. The team was third in the nation this year in three-point field goals, leading the Northwest Conference with an average of 9.9 threes per game. Primarily responsible for that number were

Women's Basketball

2000-2001

Highlights for the Bruins this season included avenging their only two conference losses from last year, beating arch-rival PLU three times, and enjoying a 78-56 win over Linfield in front of a Homecoming crowd of 2,000.

Opening with a record setting 9-0 start, the 2000-01 Lady Bruins picked up where they left off last season in rewriting the record books. The Bruins staked this season as their most successful ever by compiling a 23-3 overall record, clinching the NW Conference title with a 15-1 record, and hosting a 2nd round national tournament game.

Ranked No. 11 nationally in the official d3hoops.com pre-season poll, the Bruins climbed the ladder to the eventual No. 1 spot, earning enough votes to knock off the three-time defending national champion Washington (Mo.) University. The No. 1 title also came with a large target, as the Bruins experienced a week later when they were upset by Willamette University 59-56. The loss ended a record-tying 11 game winning streak. However, Bruin persistence and two wins to end the regular season clinched the NWC title for the 2nd year in a row; it also allowed the Bruins their first ever opportunity to host a national tournament game.

The Bruins were led by senior center Katie Lacey who repeated as NWC "Player of the Year." Fifth year head coach Scott Rueck repeated his "Coach of the Year" accolades from last year by being named "Co-Coach of the Year" for the 2000-01 season.

Learning Experience

"We walked through low valleys and on high mountain tops this season. The character of this team was to work and persevere together through every challenge. The accomplishments we achieved were incredible, but what's most rewarding are the life lessons learned." -Katie Lacey

"Giving our most has very little to do with the end result on the scoreboard and more to do with making sure that we gave it everything we had." -Coach Pat Bailey

A strong ending wrapped up a great season for the Bruins. These boys finished the season under Head Coach Pat Bailey with a Northwest Conference record of 15-9 and an overall record of 22-21. The Bruins got off to a rocky start, beginning the season with five losses, but they picked up the pace, worked hard and ended the season strong, tying for third place in the conference.

Head Coach Pat Bailey, in his sixth season here at George Fox, is known for having his teams finish strong (George Fox Sports Release). As head coach he has a winning percentage of .700 and is ranked fourteenth among coaches in the conference.

Several of this year's team members were given special honors for their hard work. Three Bruins were named First Team All Conference. These included senior Paul Andrewjeski, sophomore Eric Bell, and junior Ryan Dearing. Starting pitchers Brody Wilson and Damon Lorenz, reliever Glenn Boss, and third baseman Aaron Bliss recieved honorable mention.

The George Fox Bruins had an amazing season with a Northwest Conference record of 12-9. With "Coach of the Year," Tim Hill, the team made an exciting turnaround from the year before, which had a record of 6-25. "The Bruins had been picked to finish seventh, but wound up with a score that was good for fourth place. The Bruins stayed strong and were in second place up until the last two weeks of the season, where they ended with an overall record of 16-14-2 and fourth place (George Fox Sports Release).

Men's

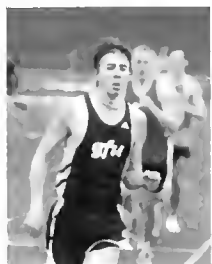

A team infused with young energy takes a year to regroup after the loss of graduated national competitors. But they won't be down for long.

A group of up-and-coming young powerhouses promises to rally momentum for the Bruins, judging by their 2001 track and field season. During the regular season, the Bruin men joined the women as division champions of the Five-Way Focus Meet at rival Linfield, while they held a solid third place at both the Willamette competition and the Claremont Challenge over spring break.

Conference championships came for Jon Robinson in the long jump, Ben Salisbury in the 200m, the 4x100m relay team of Robinson, four-year

Track & Field

Women's

Though a young team, the women tracksters of George Fox proved themselves -- from season's beginning -- a mighty force to be reckoned with.

George Fox sent six of its women athletes to the NCAA Division III National Championships this spring, highlighting another fine year for the Bruin track and field teams. Heather Hunt in the pole vault, Sarah Zempel in the shot put, Lori Miller in the Javelin, Jamie McElwain in the 800m, Amy Forbes in the high jump, and Kelsey Baron in both the long jump and the triple jump represented the Bruins at the May nationals in Decatur, Ill. Hunt earned All-American status with a second-place finish, clearing 12-0 as did the champion with fewer attempts. Her school record is tied for the second-best in NCAA Division III history. The loss of considerable senior talent this year shouldn't hurt the team's future. Led by young talent -- the top three point-scorers for GFU were underclassmen -- the ladies of Bruin track and field are gearing up for what very could turn out to be a generation of domination.

Men's Tennis

This season was a great learning experience for a young team.

For the LOVE of the Game...

With the loss of 2000 All-Northwest Conference players Todd Hammans, Ryan Cruz, and only sophomore Joe Gonzales returning, the George Fox men's tennis team was loaded with inexperience. The result was a learning year for the youthful Bruins as they went 2-15 overall and 1-10 in the Northwest Conference, finishing eighth in the league standings.

The Bruins' two wins came over Pacific, one in a regular season match and the other in a conference "play-in" match for the eighth spot in the conference tournament. Gonzales posted the best singles record, going 7-10, including a 7-9 mark at number one. He and freshman Derek Dougherty recorded the top doubles mark as well, posting a 5-12 record, all at number one.

Let's Play

Women's Tennis

'00 - '01

This year was a building year for the women's tennis team. They worked hard and will do better next year.

George Fox men's tennis coach Rick Cruz added women's tennis to his list of coaching responsibilities, inheriting a team with only two returning players and one senior. With four freshmen in the lineup, the inexperienced Bruins posted a 3-15 overall record, and finished eighth in the Northwest Conference at 2-11.

The Bruins recorded a non-conference win over Evergreen State and were 2-0 against NWC rival Pacific.

Listen Carefully

Right: Kim Reimer sits on the sideline after a match and listens intently to what the coach is saying so that she can do better next time.

Freshman Lisa Trefts was the top singles player with a 7-10 record, including a 6-10 mark at number one. Trefts and senior Kim Reimer had the best record in doubles teaming up for a 3-8 record at number one.

Is it coming?

Ready for anything

Spirit Leaders

The Pep Band, Dance Team, Courtside Chaos, and Sideline Spirit helped make the basketball season exciting and spirited.

It was a year full of fun, entertainment and excitement for the George Fox basketball fans. Several groups of dedicated students showed their support for the men's and women's teams as they cheered them on at home games and worked to bring Bruin spirit to the fans that packed Wheeler Gymnasium. The Pep Band played lively music for fans to cheer by. The Dance Team provided halftime entertainment at some games. The team also performed for the student body at the Homecoming assembly. Last but not least were a new group of spirited fans, organized by the Student

Inside Scoop

"The dance team is a good way for me to show my talent and to share it with the other members of the team. The girls on the team have been great to work with and I hope I will see them all on the team next year.

It's tough work, but when it comes down to performing it's all worth it."

Meet your

ASC Central Committee

Student leadership in 2000-01 ultimately fell into the hands of nine individuals. This group learned to balance personal intuition with collective judgment to make decisions that touched every aspect of student life at George Fox. Whether it was adopting a stretch of highway along 99W (their "baby", as they grew to endearingly call it), weighing controversial decisions to change policies affecting floor hours and R-rated movies on campus, or pulling an all-nighter to initiate the incoming committee, "Bri-Bri's harem" did it with a style uniquely their own. Devoting their time to serving their peers kept these leaders up late nights. With Leslie asking all the questions, Joanie pumping all the water by moonlight, and no less than five major surgeries among group members over the course of the year, the harried student government barely found time to breathe!

This "gung-ho" team averaged about five hours of sleep a night.

Scott, your clothes are back in style!

Above: The ASC Constitution demands that the Central Committee members attend every ASC-sponsored dance -- which they did with pleasure when the theme was the 80s. ("Miss Chapman, if you're nasty ...")

No, this is not an ad ...

Above: Even student leaders need a break from time to time. The group escaped responsibility for a weekend retreat at their favorite getaway, the Snuggle Inn. (And yes, knitting needles did make an appearance.)

Faith's poncho's been WHERE?

Above: The notorious camping trip to eastern Oregon kicked off the committee's year together. After summiting the middle Sister, the group grins with exhaustion at the week's end.

"Don't step in the leadership"

Right: As Brian, Faith, and Janelle demonstrate here, the committee was constantly creating inside jokes; laughter was common at group meetings and get-togethers like Walkabout.

We're all named 'Heidi,' thank you

All in a Day's Work

Amy Chapman, Joani Kroon, and Leslie Sesser participate in one of the weekly Monday meetings.

Whatever they decide, the outcome will affect their fellow students.

"Yes, I'd like to order some office supplies..." Between typing up the committee's weekly minutes and monitoring the clubs' activities, Faith Curammeng carries out her daily duties as ASC secretary.

As Supreme Court Chief Justice she facilitated the adoption of new policies, but her job description at times called for complete and utter goofiness. Here Heidi Hardenburger throws caution to the wind for a homecoming skit.

As a part of the Elite conference, students participate in team-building at the Tilikum Ropes Course. The Ropes Course activities all require teamwork because they cannot be successfully completed by any one person.

Many of the ASC activities included Italian sodas as refreshments. Here Jason Davis and Ben Lehman twirl whipped cream cans through the air as they prepare to dispense some on their Italian sodas.

Masterfully done!

Leadership

Student Lead Events

There are a number of ways for students of George Fox University to get involved. One of these ways is through leadership. There are many student leadership roles on the campus including positions on the Christian Services Committee, Chaplain's Committee, Elite Conference Committee, Supreme Court, and the Activities Committee. Two students from each class are also selected as class representatives. Many of these people are in charge of a smaller subgroup. Not only is strong leadership important for these roles, but one's love for God is also stressed through the activities and events that these groups host. These students work to minister to the community and create a better environment in which the George Fox Community can grow and learn.

Residence Life

The people in charge

Resident Assistants, House Managers, and Apartment Managers are all essential in making the George Fox community what it is. Each position requires hard work, responsibility, and a love for people. They have to be fun and creative in order to come up with fun activities to build community living and a unified group of students. There are three RA Staffs and a staff of house and apartment managers. Each group has an area coordinator that is in charge of several specific living areas. These people work with the staffs to plan activities, answer questions, and deal with any problems the floor might have. All of these people work hard to make any student's experience here at George Fox the best that it can be.

Left: "Being a player is different than what I originally thought. Yeah, we have to work hard, and it is really cool to see that other people are blessed, encouraged, or challenged. However, I wasn't expecting myself to be so blessed, encouraged, and challenged by both our sketches and the eight other members of the group (Mel too, don't think I can't count :-)) . I love the fact that God uses anything for his glory, even being goofy."
- Ben Macy

Left: James Kramer said to his fellow Players: "This year's Players group has been so amazing. You all have let me be myself and have made me seriously think about the sketches we've performed. Thank you for always being so vulnerable and for sharing so many laughs with me. And yes, Jacob, for the rest of our lives, I will always quote lines - just to see your reaction! I love you guys."

Left: "The Players affected my life in a tremendous way. I've been changed in ways I may not be able to conceive right now. I feel something different about me; each time I walk into a church, or a school, without the Players I have longed for them, for a moment to share what it is that drives me on with people. When I see groups of children, I just want to run to them and pretend I'm Superman. Those people (the Players) are in me now, they have become a bulwark of faith for me. We should all be so lucky to be encouraged that Christ lives."

FUN WITH A MESSAGE

Above: Trina, Josh, Erin (Back), Kristen, and Ben (Front) perform a skit for the Players Chapel. Kristen said of her experience as a Player, "Potlucks, 8-hour van rides, 6 a.m. call times, who knew such great times could be had? This was a fabulous year of friendship building, philosophizing, LAUGHING, and serving God."

THE TRIP IS HALF THE FUN?

Above: Being a Player includes many hours of traveling. After an exciting, fun-filled, and fast-paced trip to southern California, James, Melissa, Trina, and Kristen show their boredom and exhaustion as they wait in the airport.

FUN AND BLESSINGS

Left: Kristen, James, and Ben look down on Melissa as a part of one of their skits. Melissa said of her experience as a Player, "With Players it is fun, fun, fun all the time. Except for the times when we get to share Jesus with others, then it is more than fun, it is a blessing."

University Players

Drama, Music, Ministry

University Players, an eight-member touring drama group, exists "to share biblical truths to others through the medium of drama," according to director Mel Schroeder. Except for a chapel appearance and Players Presents, the group performed their well-loved skits for off-campus audiences. One highlight of the year was a trip to the Los Angeles area where the Players participated in a GFU Legacy dinner and performed at churches and schools. Member Erin Newberry said, "My biggest expectations were that I would get to be close to a great group of people and get to act for lots of people. These two expectations were fulfilled; but, if that's all I will have taken away from the year, then it will have been wasted, because there's so much more I learned."

"We know that the ministry aspect of what we do is only as effective as the spiritual preparation we have made."

- Mel Schroeder

IT'S NOT ALL WORK!

DaySpring

Music and Ministry

DaySpring continued its tradition of ministry and excellence as they performed a cappella vocal orchestrations, well-known hymns, and contemporary worship songs at churches and schools throughout the northwest, even learning a fun rendition of "Old McNoah." This year the group was made up of eight of George Fox's most talented vocalists; Kendra Charles, Bethany Wheatcraft, Leah Weare, Sharon McKee, Nate Parkes, Jon Buhler, Ben McReynolds, and Travis Morgan, who replaced Bryan Free after the fall semester. In May the group went on a two-week tour throughout Oregon, Washington, and Alaska. DaySpring is directed by Derric Johnson, who arranges all their songs.

"It is Dayspring's mission to be ambassadors for our Lord Jesus Christ, that He may use us for His glory, His will, and His ways in all our music, actions and words. Our ministry goes beyond the performances. At all time, we desire to exemplify Christ by allowing Him to work through us, ministering to all people, including ourselves, on and off the stage."

Music

Bands and Choirs

Students have many opportunities to develop and share their musical talents as a part of a George Fox band or choir. Concert Band and Concert Choir are the two largest groups. Jazz Band, Handbell Ringers, Chamber Singers, and Bel Canto Singers, which is made up of all women, are also popular groups and offer a wide range of musical styles to suit everyone. In addition, many students participate in small group ensembles. Throughout the year, the bands and choirs put in many hours of practice to prepare for on and off campus performances at churches, in chapel, and during special evening performances. The groups strive to minister to others through their gift of music.

Clubs

Something for everyone

Clubs are a good way for students to get involved in the George Fox Community. There is a wide variety of clubs at George Fox so there is something to spark the interest of everyone who joins. These clubs provide a stimulating environment in which students can have conversations, learn new skills, gain leadership experience, and enjoy fun activities with students who have the same interests. These clubs are also a good way to get some sort of field experience for future jobs. They provide a direct link to areas of interest in the job world as well as being lots of fun.

Never stop building. Yes, it is the end to another year, but not the end of the everlasting construction of our lives. Remember the old times, learn from the past, and live your life to the fullest. Build on the knowledge you have gained and the foundation that you have spent so many years preparing. Grow with God.

Grow in Him

Every house is built by someone, but God is the builder of everything.

-Hebrews 3:4

Everyone who hears these words
of mine and puts them into practice is like a wise man who built his house on the rock.

The rain came down, the streams
rose, and the winds
blew and beat
against that house;
yet it did not fall
because it had its foundation on the rock.

But everyone who
hears these words
of mine and does not put them into practice is like a foolish man who built his house on sand.

The rain came
down, the streams
rose, and the winds
blew and beat
against that house,
and it fell with a great crash.
-Matthew 7:24-27

I came,
I saw,
but I haven't conquered (need a couple years).

- Mark
Johnson

.....

You are no longer foreigners and aliens, but fellow citizens with God's people and members of God's household, built in the foundation of the apostles and prophets, with Christ Jesus Himself as the chief cornerstone. In Him the whole building is joined together and rises to become a holy temple in the Lord. And in Him you too are being built together to become a dwelling in which God lives by His Spirit.

-Ephesians 2:19-21

.....

Thank you to Colin Miller, yearbook adviser; Marisa Merritt, ASC communications director; Annette Johnson, Herff Jones Representative; the Yearbook Staff; University Relations (Blair Cash, Anita Cirulis, and Diane Funderhide); the ASC Darkroom Staff, and all of the students, faculty, and staff who made the construction of this book possible.
